Situated on a 6,500-acre military installation located in the northwest corner of New Jersey, Picatinny plays a unique role in the United States' ability to wage war. There is no other comprehensive armaments facility like it in the country; it is a one-of-a-kind facility that provides virtually all of the lethal mechanisms used in Army weapon systems and those of the other military services.

Nestled in North Western New Jersey, Morris County is home to Picatinny. Morris County is among one of the fastest growing areas in the New Jersey, New York, Connecticut Metropolitan region. Settled amid rolling hills, glistening lakes, and broad valleys, Morris County is approximately 45 minutes from New York City and 2 hours from Philadelphia. Beautiful homes predominate both in the towns and the countryside. With multi-million dollar shopping centers and three universities, Morris County is a great place to live. So get out there and explore!

We look forward to serving you and having you on our team!

On 6 September 1880, the War Department established the Dover Powder Depot. Four days later, it changed the name to Picatinny Arsenal Powder Depot. In 1907, the Army altered the name to Picatinny Arsenal and established its first powder factory on the site. While continuing to produce munitions, the arsenal moved into research and development work with the start of a school to instruct officers in weaponry sciences in 1911, the establishment of testing and control laboratories during the World War I era, and the beginning of a small, experimental plant for the design and development of artillery ammunition in 1919. In 1921, the arsenal took over responsibility for experimental work on fuzes.

The arsenal continued to realize its potential as a research and development facility in the years between the two world wars. Major accomplishments of this period included better methods for storing smokeless powder, improved processing of cyclonite, more commonly called RDX, and the discovery of a new explosive, haleite. The discoverer was Dr. George C. Hale, the arsenal's chief chemist.

After World War II, Picatinny Arsenal refocused its efforts on developing new weapons and munitions. Its support to the American forces in Korea included an improved bazooka and an illuminating rifle grenade. In periods of peace, the arsenal made important contributions to progress in the areas of radar, pyrotechnics, missiles, time fuzes, and nuclear munitions.

When war broke out again, it gave troops in Vietnam a complete family of 40mm ammunition for grenade launchers and helicopter gun ships.

In 1977, the Army recognized Picatinny Arsenal's leadership in weapons and munitions development by headquartering its Armament Research and Development Command at the arsenal and giving it responsibility for developing small caliber weapons and munitions.

In 1983, the Army disestablished the Armament Research and Development Command and Picatinny Arsenal became the home of the Armament Research, Development and Engineering Center. In 1986, the name again changed to the Armament Research, Development and Engineering Center. Whatever the name, the installation leads the way in weapons and ammunition development.

Expansion of the Arsenal

Gasoline-Electric Locomotive Shed and Garage Under Construction

A deed dated 26 June 1880 records the first land purchase for the future Picatinny Arsenal. Mr. George E. Righter transferred 1,195.8 acres centered on Lake Picatinny Arsenal to the United States Government in return for $35,874.00. This area, afterwards known as the Middle Forge Tract because of the forge located there during the Revolutionary War, became the central area of the arsenal. In 1880 and 1881, the government also purchased tracts from Uel H. Wiggins, Edward C. Fiedler, Henry and Michael Doland, John E. Kindred, and others. These initial purchases, including the Middle Forge Tract, covered 1866.13 acres and cost a total of $62,750.00. At the same time, the government gave $200.00 to Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Spicer for a 50 foot strip on which to construct a road from Spicertown to the powder depot. In 1891, the Army transferred 315 acres bordering Lake Denmark to the Navy.

Over the years, the Army continued to make small purchases to round out arsenal boundaries, but the next major expansion came in 1941, just before the United States entered World War II. At this time, the Army purchased the land between the Cannon Gates and the present main entrance near NJ Route 15. This included Spicertown, an unincorporated village in Rockaway Township. Spicertown had declined from a relatively thriving nineteenth century community of small but profitable farms to a rather depressed area in 1941. Still, many of the residences were in good condition and house military families to this day. Near Parker Road are buildings 1123 and 1124, both acquired from the estate of John E. Larson for $16,000.00. The purchase price included 24 acres of land. Buildings 1125, 1126, and 1127 and the accompanying 12 acres cost the government $19,769.00. On the opposite side of Parker Road are buildings 1138 and 1139, acquired from Helen Jane Larsen with 1.5 acres for $10,534.00, and building 1140, the former home of Clarence and Agnes Burdette constructed around 1919. The government appraiser praised the landscaping and the grassy knoll location. The primary vehicle for transportation in the early days of the Arsenal was the railroad.

The early Wharton & Northern (succeeded by the Jersey Central) was laid from Wharton to Green Pond through the heart of the valley in which Picatinny Arsenal now resides. This line connected the various railroads serving the Wharton area with the New York, Susquehanna & Western at Green Pond. Picatinny Arsenal maintained as much as 49 miles of its own narrow and standard gauge Picatinny Arsenal Railroad to service its many transportation needs (fuel, raw materials, ammunition, etc.). Today, rail service through the Arsenal is just a memory with only a disused weed-choked stub line into the Arsenal and scattered traces of the once busy narrow gauge railway.

In 1960, the Army resumed control of land it had given the Navy, bringing the installation to its current size and shape.

ARDEC

The Armament Research, Development and Engineering Center (ARDEC) is the Army’s "Center of Lethality", a designation that reflects its importance as a provider of more than 90% percent of the Army’s lethality to soldiers. Headquartered at Picatinny, N.J., ARDEC is the Army’s principal researcher, developer and sustainer of current and future armament and munitions systems. ARDEC plays a key part in Army Transformation with its involvement in the development of the Soldier and Future Combat Systems and continued efforts in the development of advanced weapons that exploit technologies like high-power microwaves, high-energy lasers and nano-technology.

ARDEC’s overall mission is to improve already fielded items, develop new ones, maintain a strong armament technology base in government, industry and academia and provide technical support to the soldier in the field. In this way, the Center achieves its vision of “Innovative Armaments Solutions for Today and Tomorrow.”

DEFENSE CONTRACT AUDIT AGENCY

The Defense Contract Audit Agency, under the authority, direction, and control of the Under Secretary of Defense (Comptroller), is responsible for performing all contract audits for the Department of Defense, and providing accounting and financial advisory services regarding contracts and subcontracts to all DOD Components responsible for procurement and contract administration. These services are provided in connection with negotiation, administration, and settlement of contracts and subcontracts. DCAA also provides contract audit services to some other Government Agencies.

DEFENSE CONTRACT MANAGEMENT AGENCY

The Defense Contract Management Agency (DCMA) is the Department of Defense (DOD) component that works directly with Defense suppliers to help ensure that DOD, Federal and allied government supplies and services are delivered on time, at projected cost and meet all performance requirements. DCMA directly contributes to the military readiness of the United States and its allies, and helps preserve the nation’s freedom.

GARRISON

Community Emergency Response Team
Have you ever wondered what you could do to help your community be better prepared during an emergency? The answer is join the Picatinny Arsenal CERT, which is part of the FEMA Citizen Corps program. As a member of the PICA~CERT you will need to go through a mandatory CERT Basic Training program which is a free four-day course offered at Picatinny Arsenal. This training does not prepare you to be a First Responder, but it does provide you with basic emergency skills. Upon completion, you may be called upon to assist in community events and emergencies.

To join the PICA~CERT, submit your name and contact information to pica.garrison.eoc@conus.army.mil. Also, you can check their website at https://picac2w5.pica.army.mil/dpsea/CERT.html.

Civil Air Patrol
In the Civil Air Patrol (CAP), a humanitarian and educational nonprofit organization, you CAN serve the United States as a civilian volunteer of the Air Force’s auxiliary. You can join more than 56,000 members who expand and share their expertise with CAP in a wide variety of fields – from writing to flying, radio operations, teaching, youth leadership, emergency services and much, much more. The opportunities are truly endless! CAP’s Cadet’s program is available for those between the ages of 12 to 21 years old. To find out more, visit the website at: www.gocivilairpatrol.com

THE COMMUNITY

Balfour Beatty Communities
Building 117A, 1st FL (973) 328-2992 M-F 0730-1630

Army Family Housing on Picatinny Arsenal has been privatized and is now operated by Balfour Beatty Communities. As of January 2007, applications for post housing will be accepted by the Balfour Beatty Communities' Military Family Housing Office. Balfour Beatty offers 71 homes with a variety of recreational amenities in 5 distinct neighborhoods. For more information, visit their website at:

By accessing the website you may:
Submit an application, Check the waiting list, Access forms and guides, Contact management, Submit a service request, Take a 360 degree virtual tour and Explore the neighborhoods.

Utilities:
Residents are responsible for phone service, internet and cable - if they so desire. Electricity, natural gas, water, sewer and renter’s insurance are provided.
Residents may call any cable or satellite company (satellites require additional paperwork from housing) for availability of service and contract requirements.
Most of the newer homes can receive cable service from Optimum. Phone numbers for Optimum and Verizon are in the back of the Welcome Guide or on the Balfour Beatty website for your convenience.

Housing Service Office
Building 117B, 2nd FL (973) 724-2190 M-F 0730-1600

As of 30 September 2008, Barrack space for single Soldiers or Geographical Bachelors was eliminated. You will need to contact the Housing Services Office (HSO) for a Certificate of Non-Availability. In addition, the HSO can assist you in finding local rental property and provide referrals to resources in the area. Rental costs tend to be higher than most areas, but suitable housing can be found for under your monthly Basic Allowance for Housing.
